

Abstract

Graduation Level of Proficiency Paper (Master's degree)

Title: The modern concept of development and implementation of modular training professionally oriented on Russian as a foreign language in the field of education in the tourism system of specialists training programs (on linguistic and intercultural resource material of the Caucasian Mineral Waters)

Author: Olga Yuryevna Beloglazova

Research Supervisor: Candidate of Philology, Associate Professor Marina Yuryevna Getmanskaya

Topical Importance: modern society needs introducing innovative teaching technologies which can make education combined, flexible, ensuring the development of foreign students' creative thinking, enhance and improve the quality of education. It is a flexible approach to training is provided with the modular technology, it allows you to take different sequences of passing the course. Undoubtedly, learning language is impossible without contact with the culture. Linguistic and intercultural resources of the Caucasian Mineral Waters will help us in it, training on the basis of which will improve the efficiency of learning.

Goal is a development and introduction of modular teaching professionally-oriented program for musicians on Russian as a foreign language (on the material resources linguistic and intercultural Caucasian Mineral Waters) (C1 level).

Tasks: 1. To consider the backbone role of the Russian language in the process of training of foreign students; 2. To analyze the major systems professionally-oriented education in the modern practice of teaching Russian as a foreign language; 3. Examine the basic approaches, principles of professional programs and forms-based learning Russian as a foreign language; 4. To identify the features of the educational programs in Russian as a foreign language, built on a modular principle; 5. To analyze the types of modules and the mechanisms of their cooperation within the framework of the educational program; 6. To examine linguistic and intercultural aspect as the means of formation of professional communicative competence of foreign students. 7. To research the development of methodology of modular training professionally oriented programs.

Theoretical value is based on the theoretical basis of modular technology in professionally-oriented teaching Russian as a foreign language; the aggregate of the provisions contained in the study, which complement and concretize the concept of professionally-oriented education of students inofon.

Practical applicability. Developed modular training professionally-oriented program, based on 8 lessons, provides a system of tasks and a set of exercises that are designed for an advanced level of knowledge of the language to foreign students.

Results: determined by the possibility of applying the basic provisions and the conclusions in the practice of teaching Russian as a foreign language. The represented materials can be used at the lessons of speaking, writing, reading, listening and grammar.